

Dr. Sanjay Kapur is an entrepreneurial executive, scientist, speaker, anti-aging expert and educator with over 25 years of experience in Research and clinical laboratories, contract research organizations, Diagnostics and Biomedical device industries. Dr. Kapur is the Founder and CEO of AYUMETRIXLLC, a Research, Consulting and Diagnostic Organization that offers specialized high complexity functional laboratory testing of the future and consulting services for platform technology firms and diagnostic companies. He is also involved as Scientific and Marketing Advisor and Consultant for various medical device and diagnostic groups, helping with Strategic planning, resource allocations, new business development and achieving timeline/ milestones by partnering with ongoing relationships within targeted accounts.

Sanjay has spent several years managing activities to develop and commercialize new anti-aging testing methodologies, innovative laboratory procedures and conducted research into new applications of clinical laboratory testing. He has managed research and business collaborations, international business strategy and PMA submission for a number of biotech organizations. He has extensive experience in hormone research and has served in several lead positions, managing multi-disciplinary teams working to identify, develop novel laboratory tests and technologies in a wide range of disease areas. Dr. Kapur is an internationally known and recognized anti-aging expert, with dozens of peer-reviewed publications and abstracts, as well as numerous invited presentations. He is a highly-sought speaker on health and wellness at national and international medical conferences.

Dr.Kapur's strong desire and passion to educate physicians all around the world motivated him to found the Society for Regenerative, Aesthetics and Anti-Aging Society of India. He also serves on Editorial and Scientific Boards of several scientific journals and international anti-aging societies.

Sanjay Kapur holds a Doctorate in Biochemistry and Masters in Business Administration (Healthcare).